NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK—Last our views supporting a Community Chest plan be construed as being against charity fund drives of any nature, we hasten to make some explanation.

Some months ago, and several times since, we suggested that a Community Chest plan be adopted. Some influential citizens agree. Our stand was that our community was being "driven" to the point of exhaustion, that each bigger and better drive worked to the detriment of many worthwhile causes. If the populace would suddenly sicken of fund campaigns, those great and good causes would suffer as a result.

The Community Chest idea, we feel, stemmed from a similar feeling in many communities across the land. Those cities and towns who have adopted the idea felt that the problem could be met by exhorting the citizenry to one great effort and allow them a year to recuperate.

The Community Chest plan is certainly not a scheme to deprive any worthwhile charity of money. It's a regulatory measure and carries with it the same consciousness of the poor, needy, disaster-stricken, and the fight against disease as would the separate campaigns.

It's no secret that some of the well-established national organizations such as the Red Cross and American Cancer Society shun Community Chest funds. In the current issue of the American Magazine appears an article, "Are Charity Drives Driving You Crazy?" in which the author outlines the problem and the opposition to Community or United Funds.

Quoting one official of a national agency: "We know we would get just as much money now if we joined the United Funds. What we're afraid of, though, is that these United Funds might grow powerful and start to dictate how much or how little each agency should receive. We don't want some autocratic board of directors in each town deciding what our needs are nationally."

The author quotes the case of Winston-Salem, N. C.:

"After five years of coping with the problem (charity drives), the committee decided that only a United Fund would end the steady barrage of campaigns without injuring philanthropy itself. As the Winston-Salem Sentinel stated, 'The United Fund may not be the perfect answer to a pressing problem, but it is by far the best that has been found so far.'"

"How the contributors felt about Winston-Salem's United Fund is reflected in the results of the first two campaigns. The goal of the campaign for 1952 was $425,377. Contributions were $514,471. The campaign for 1953 had a goal of $464,486, but the people contributed $526,000."

The author concludes: "... I am confident that the people of good will in our community, and in others, will get together eventually and inject some sanity into the whole crazy situation of overlapping drives. In the last several months I've found out a few things about how complex the problem is. But that only convinces me that it's up to all of us to work it out in each community. After all, who could do it better than the people who put up the money? ... I mean us."

Convict County Highway Chief As Tax Dodger

CHICAGO (AP)—A former Henry county highways superintendent pleaded guilty today to evading $11,612 in taxes on income he derived from renting county road building equipment.

He is Stuart W. Ogden, 56, of Geneseo, who was highway superintendent from 1936 to 1949.

THE CALENDAR SAYS IT'S SPRING, but Al Vandenberg, Dixon, was dubious today as he shoveled a blanket of snow from the walk in front of his paint store on First street.

Egypt Gripped In New Crisis Military Government Drops Election Plan

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt's military government announced tonight that all previous decisions to conduct constituent assembly elections and abolish the ruling revolution council in July have been cancelled.

The announcement, which assured continuation of Egypt's military regime despite the opposition of President Mohamed Naguib, came after two days of heated conflict in the cabinet and revolution council while Cairo surged with anti-Naguib demonstrations.

Instead of a constituent assembly previously promised by the revolution council, it was decided to establish an appointed "national advisory council" in which various organizations and professions would be represented.

This development came shortly after the army rushed tanks and steel-helmeted troops into Cairo to preserve order after demonstrators attacked and beat Egypt's chief justice.

An army officer told newsmen the justice, Abdel Razzak Sanhuri, had drawn a pistol and killed two demonstrators, but a photographer who arrived during the attack said two were wounded and no one was killed.

The outbreak came while Naguib, who collapsed for a time this morning, engaged in crucial conversations with cabinet members and his opponent's on the revolution council.

Dairymen Rush Butter to Storage Before Price Fall

CHICAGO (AP)—A rush by dairymen to get their surplus butter in under the government price support tent was under way today.

Warehousemen reported several million pounds will flow into Chicago terminals by the time lower support prices go into effect on Thursday.

Even before the market goes down generally, many Chicago chain stores have cut prices from 4 to 10 cents a pound. Solid pound bricks sold at 59 cents today compared with 69 last week. Pounds in quarter-pound packets were down from 73 to 68 and 69.

Rush Is On Howard Galtz of the Berkshire Cold Storage Co. said a half-million pounds came in Friday putting that house's total up to five million.

"We expect another 1½ to 2 million pounds today and tomorrow," he said, "although heavy snow is cutting down truck arrivals to some extent."

He said the house's capacity is 15 million pounds and that it would be entirely in government storage before long. He added that

Dulles Will Spell Out U.S. Far Eastern Policy Tonight

Expected to Oppose Red Recognition

No 'Deals' Over Indochina, State Department Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. government's position on keeping Indochina out of Communist hands and holding the door against seating of Red China in the United Nations is up for restatement tonight, reportedly in tough terms.

The spokesman is Secretary of State Dulles. He will talk to the Overseas Press Club in New York, and to the nation by ABC radio and Du Mont television.

The broadcast is scheduled for 8 p.m. CST.

The administration has been focusing emphasis on this speech, which Dulles and President Eisenhower went over together in a long White House conference. A whole series of declarations within the past few days, from administration sources and others, has led up to it.

Against "Deals" The United States is interested in maintaining stiff resistance against any deals on Indochina with which the Reds might try to tempt the French, some of whom are visibly wearying of the seven-year war. The Reds would be in position to spring such offers at the April 26 Far East conference in Geneva to be attended by representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and Red China.

Another apparent U. S. objective is to take the question of recognition of Red China out of the conference bargaining by making this country's position unmistakable in advance.

Unusual Message The President Sunday dispatched an unusual message to the governmental heads of France and Vietnam, the Indochinese state directly concerned with the current fighting. The World War II Allied commander expressed for himself and the nation "most profound admiration for the brave and resourceful fight being waged ... by troops from France, Viet Nam, and other parts of the French Union" in the battle now raging for the key fortress of Dien Bien Phu. The President asked his message be conveyed to the garrison commander, Col. Christian De Castries, whom he had already singled out for

'Hopeful' for Air Academy An official source said Naguib will keep his three jobs as president of the republic, prime minister and chairman of the revolution council. Nevertheless, the decision to cancel all plans for a constituent assembly election and end of the military regime represented a complete defeat for the President.

The Champaign - Urbana area, home of the University of Illinois, has been suggested as a site for the academy.

Stratton, here for a White House governors' conference, said he intends to discuss the matter with Illinois congressmen. The university area, the governor added, "has every needed facility" for a service academy.

Franklin Music Teacher's Death 'Accident,' Jury Says

Accidental death resulting from head injuries suffered in a Saturday morning auto mishap near Dixon was the verdict Sunday morning of a Lee county coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Esther Cluts, 49, Franklin Grove.

No charges were filed against Glenn F. Huff Jr., 18, Rochelle, whose car went out of control about 8:45 a.m. Saturday on Alt. Rt. 30, causing the car driven by Mrs. Cluts to crash into a culvert and overturn.

Operated Studio The deceased was the operator of the Cluts Music studio located in the Spute building, Galena avenue and First street. She was heading to work when the mishap occurred.

According to Coroner Robert Preston, who conducted the inquest at Hicks funeral home, Franklin Grove, the accident apparently was caused by a blowout of the right front tire on the Huff vehicle as he was passing the Cluts car.

Huff testified Sunday at the inquest that he heard a noise just as he was about to pass, then the car veered right and into the side of the Cluts car.

Forced off the road, the Cluts vehicle smashed into a culvert. The driver was thrown from the car which came to a halt against a

White House Picketed by ILA Workers

Ask Audience With President Over Strike Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—A police-estimated crowd of 1,000 longshoremen picketed the White House today in an effort to speed up settlement of the New York dock strike, but ended their marching at midday.

The pickets, carrying flags and banners, remained orderly and quiet as they paraded in front of the White House throughout the morning. Just as quietly, they piled into buses and cars shortly after noon to return to their homes in the New York-New Jersey area.

Some of the marchers sent a request into the White House for an audience with President Eisenhower, but a guard brought back word that the President's time was all taken up today and he would be unable to see the men. They accepted the situation without protest.

Another delegation called on Chairman Guy Farmer of the national labor relations board and was told the board would act as promptly as possible to settle a dispute over union representation. The board has a hearing scheduled in the matter Tuesday.

There was no picketing of the board's offices, as reportedly had been planned.

The men represent the old International Longshoremen's Assn., which apparently won a board-supervised election just before Christmas for the right to represent the dock workers. A board examiner recommended that the election be voided, on the ground that the ILA was responsible for violence and intimidation which he said prevented a fair test at the polls.

Prisoners, on Hunger Strike, Spurn Chicken

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ten city jail prisoners, three of them convicted in bank robbery cases, begin their sixth day of a "hunger strike" today after turning down a Sunday roast chicken dinner.

The men began refusing meals last Wednesday after Warden E. E. Hensley ordered the confined in maximum security cells 24 hours a day.

Hensley said he took the action after he heard reports of a possible jail break.

McCarthy-Army Hearing Lacks Special Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senate investigation of charges hurled by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and high army officials was still stalled today by failure to obtain a satisfactory special counsel.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who temporarily has replaced McCarthy as chairman of the senate investigations subcommittee while it makes the probe, said he did not see how public hearings could start before next week.

With Sens. McClellan (D-Ark) and Jackson (D-Wash.), he has been sounding out various prospects for the counsel's job.

Devotes Issue to Senator With the probe hanging fire, the Progressive magazine, founded by the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Sr., in 1909 and published in Madison, Wis., announced it had devoted its April issue to a study of McCarthy.

In a news release, the magazine said the "comprehensive, carefully documented study" came to the conclusion that "this man who has made anti-communism his political career has contributed dangerously to strengthening the Communist cause."

Dixon Fall Measures 4½ Inches

Mercury Plunges Below Zero Along U. S.-Canada Line

Winter returned to the Midwest today, dropping 4½ inches of snow on the Dixon area and sending the mercury down 37 degrees from Sunday's high reading of 55 degrees. The low recorded today was 18.

State police warned highways were slippery and hazardous due to packed snow. Officers reported a number of autos had slid into ditches, but no serious accidents were reported.

Special Warning The U. S. weather bureau, in a special snow warning, said four to eight inches of snow would fall over most of the northern half of Illinois this afternoon and tonight and would increase the hazardous condition of the roads.

The weathermen also predicted snow for the Dixon area Tuesday night, and temperatures were expected to stay below the freezing mark through Wednesday morning.

The snow brought an unexpected vacation for Grand Detour school pupils. Classes were suspended today because of the bad weather conditions.

The snow, caused by a mass of Arctic air, ranged from light to eight inches in other parts of the Midwest, extending into Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado.

Wind-driven snow harassed Chicago residents during the morning rush hour with slick underfooting and slow transportation.

The cold air moved as far south as Dalhart, Tex., which reported 15 degree temperatures.

In central Illinois, Decatur enjoyed 73 degrees Sunday, the warmest day since last fall, but it dropped to 30 today, after hail and rain.

Seven Below! Temperatures plummeted to 7 below zero at Helena, Mont., and 5 at International Falls. It was 19 at Cut Bank Sunday.

Kicked up at its leading edge, where the cold wave collided with warm currents from the Gulf of Mexico, were a towering 7,000-foot-high dust storm in southwestern Kansas and southeastern Colorado; a small tornado that struck Anderson, Ind.; thundershowers with some hail in the Ohio Valley, and scattered showers through eastern Nebraska, Iowa and northern Missouri.

Rips 10 Blocks

The tornado that struck Anderson, a city of 50,000 population, Sunday tore through 10 blocks of a residential section and two blocks of the business district, causing damage police estimated at $100,000. One man was injured when struck by a windblown pickup truck. The twister snapped off trees, sucked away roofs and ripped houses from foundations.

By early today, the cold air mass extended from the southern shores of Lakes Ontario and Erie southward to central Oklahoma, then northward through Wyoming and southwestward to the Pacific Coast.

U.S. Perplexed Over Telling About H-Bomb

Dilemma: How to Tell Reds Enough to Deter War Aims

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is tangled in the problem of keeping its military secrets while at the same time letting Russia learn enough about American armament to deter her from trying war.

This perplexity is involved in part in the current discussion over how much should be revealed officially about the thermonuclear bomb tests.

How do you convince the Soviet government and its military high command that war wouldn't pay off, without also telling too much detail about the nature and size of the force ready to hit them if they make the gamble?

Want Facts

Moscow officials are realists, never ready to accept unofficial accounts, demanding solid technical facts before they can be convinced. They want to know, and unfortunately have been able in the past to get, the range and rate of climb of new planes; the secrets of the implosion process for triggering nuclear bombs; precise information on the type and intensity of light and the size and duration of the fireball in various atomic explosions to provide identification of explosive materials used.

Knowing that helps the Russians make their own weapons. It also could help convince them that they are, at a given time, too far behind in the technological race to try war.

But if at any time or for any reason Soviet technicians decide they are even or ahead the deterrent value may be weakened, although it is possible they still might be reluctant to undertake a punishing war.

Invited To Tests

In 1946, when there still lingered some touches to the old wartime spirit of alliance and the deterrent policy was unplanned, the United States invited Russian observers to its Bikini atomic bomb tests. They have seen no American tests since, except possibly through a periscope.

But in recent months, as American atomic power has expanded by leaps and bounds, there have been suggestions that it might be well for foreign observers to have a refresher course, to convince everyone, friends and potential enemies, that here indeed is a deterrent.

Russia may learn some details because the U. S. government now feels compelled to tell its own citizens, for civil defense purposes, what to expect in an H-bomb explosion. The decision has been made to show an edited version of a motion picture of the 1952

H-bomb shot at Eniwetok. Sequences that might contain valuable technical data will be cut out.

Glenn Lehman, Rt. 2, Dixon, was fined $10 and costs in Lee county court today after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving in Dixon township.

Court costs amounted to $41.15. Lehman was brought into court on an information prepared by State's Atty. James Bales following his arrest Sunday afternoon by Lee County Sheriff John Stouffer.

He was taken into custody on a complaint brought by Otis Clevenger, Grand View avenue, Dixon township, who charged that Lehman crowded him on Lincoln avenue, almost forcing his car into the Lincoln avenue viaduct.

Joe Meek for Senator

Editor's Note: Last Friday the Evening Telegraph endorsed Joseph Meek for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator from Illinois. It expressed the belief that Joe Meek would be the best candidate and one who could defeat Sen. Paul Douglas, the Democratic incumbent, this fall. Sunday, the Chicago Tribune also endorsed candidate Meek. The text of the Tribune's supporting editorial is as follows:

It seems to us that when the strengths and weaknesses of the candidates have been balanced off, Joe Meek emerges as the best.

Meek wins no bauby prizes and no oratorical awards. If you take him, it has to be for plain speech and straightforward character because these are his stock in trade. He knows politics but has not been contaminated or soured by it. He knows Illinois and its people intimately, and in this important respect is probably better equipped to represent their wishes in the United States senate than any of the others.

The question remains, of course, whether Mr. Meek will prove the strongest of the lot in the campaign against Sen. Douglas in the autumn. Obviously there can be no certain answer, but our guess is that Mr. Meek meets this test. We think so partly because of the strong showing he has been making in the primary campaign but more particularly because of the quality of support he has been attracting.

He has more than his share of political leaders in his corner and, equally important, he has with him a host of the kind of men and women whose opinions sway votes. More of these people, we judge, are with Mr. Meek now than with any other candidate and they will stay with him through November, no matter how seductive Mr. Douglas' speeches may prove to be.

It's No Fun When Husband Takes Wife Out as a 'Favor'

Here's a letter a lot of husbands could benefit from reading. A wife writes: "I can't complain that my husband never takes me anywhere. He will usually end up by taking me where I want to go, but only after making it quite clear he is doing it just to please me.

"It's not much fun going anywhere with a person who is just going to do you a favor."

Of course, it isn't. And yet that is the spirit in which a lot of husbands go out with their wives.

Either by words or actions, or both, they make it quite clear that they are either being dragged unwillingly to the slaughter or that they are just trying to keep their wives happy.

There is nothing in that attitude that is either complimentary or reassuring to a woman.

Nor is there any real companionship in an evening spent together when the husband's attitude is the condescending one of doing his wife a favor by taking her out.

WANTS HUSBAND TO WANT TO GO

What any woman wants when she suggests an evening out is for her husband to WANT to go with her. Or at least to be a good enough actor to convince her that he looks forward to the evening, too.

Of course, the man who acts as though he is being dragged to an awful fate when his wife talks him

What's Right?

If you tell your baby sitter that you'll be home by 11, it's not fair to rush in at 1:30 with a breezy apology for being late. If you want to stay out later than you said you would, telephone and see if it is agreeable with your baby sitter.

Many baby-sitter problems are caused by inconsiderate parents.

If you are going to send a gift to the new baby whose birth announcement you have just received, do it right away. Gifts that are sent promptly seem to have been sent more gladly than those that have been put off.

Promptness lends gifts an added charm that doesn't cost a cent.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood Inside: Now it can be told—and it's an eyebrow-lifter.

Fifteen detectives armed with photographs of Joan Scott Baker mingled with the stars at the wedding of Jack Benny's Joan to Seth H. Baker. The Bennys received a tip from New York that the Scott doll might try to break up the ceremonies.

The Sgt. Fridays were instructed to give her the quiet but fast leave-ho to the sidewalk if she put in an appearance.

The strained relations between Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, I hear, hit the real boiling point when Dean was cut out of a still photograph from their last film which was reproduced in a national magazine. But the magazine, not the studio, did the cutting.

Virginia Grey went snip-snip and cut off her secret romance with Guy Madison: Once before, Virginia scissored Dan Cupid's ties with Clark Gable.

Errol Flynn foiled Nora Haymes' plans to move into his house by installing some of his own cronies the minute Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer's lease expired. Now Nora's trying to find other ways to strike at her ex for failing to support their two daughters.

The Bowery Boys are making a new film titled, "The Bowery Boys Meet the Monster." But aren't the Bowery Boys usually referred to as "little monsters"? Well, maybe they're meeting a big monster. . . . Only make-up truck for John Wayne's Ghengis Khan role in "The Conqueror": Slanted eyebrows.

Arlene Dahl and Rock Hudson don't add up to Romeo and Juliet on the "Bengal Rifles" set, despite the studio's efforts to create an off-stage romance. The Minnesota head-blazes away at reports of her coming marriage to handsome, still-tied Rudolph Schirmer with:

"Everybody's trying to marry me off. I don't wanna get married—yet. I'm concentrating on my career. There's absolutely no marriage in view."

Mondy Carson's big singing success at the Coconut Grove is the talk of the town, and she may be signed for a big movie break before you read this. Mindy's also the talk of TV Alley after telling a make-up man:

"One of my eyebrows is crooked. Don't even try to fix it with the other one. It's the only thing that makes me different."

French Line echo: Dick Powell plays a screen writer in the RKO comedy, "Susan Slept Here," and when someone says he's lost his touch, his maid argues:

"Oh, I don't know. After all, plenty of people paid to see the last film he wrote for Jane Russell."

"Honey," is the reply, "it wasn't the writing that made them pay to see THAT picture."

At the Keynote Restaurant, below the Sunset Strip, there's a "Dark Secrets" room for film executives. A sign reads: "Patrons may ask for menus printed in Braille."

Joanne Gilbert, Paramount's "Red Garters" girl, is denying a professional split with her father, songwriter Ray Gilbert, who masterminds her career. "I'll go along with Dad," Joanne told me. "After all, he has a big investment in me."

With Paramount undecided about its next film, Joanne's pleading for a chance at straight dramatic acting. "With the right help," she says, "I know I could do it. Honest, I'll even play a father if necessary."

The little emoting permitted her in "Red Garters" proves the spark is there.

Betty Lanza, Mario's wife, is waging a battle of her own to keep her date with the stork on the calendar for this summer. Her media may order her to bed for the time that's left, just to be on the safe side.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PALM BEACH, Fla.—Miss Mae Andrews, a press agent in general practice in this voluptuous, riding of the erratic and fascinating state of Florida, has committed to paper a biography of the late Edward Riley Bradley, a landmark who was in one and the same person a racketeer, if ever a racketeer lived, and a pious gentleman of almost venerable renown among men.

Many a time I wheedled with Mr. Bradley to let me lay him away in stately prose, but he always turned me off with the response that his principal interest in life was racing with a slightly biting intimation that whosoever regarded him as a gambler was guilty of unfriendly sentiments.

He said Damon Runyon and Arthur Somers Roche, the latter an old Evening World hand who somehow became carriage trade in the elegant old Palm Beach that was, both had tried to seduce him from his firm resolve. Although he was proprietor of the greatest gambling house that ever operated in our beloved country with the possible exception of Canfield's at Saratoga, which is now a municipal museum and repository of snake-rattles, beard-combings of departed dignitaries, birds' eggs and freak fungi, Colonel Bradley resolutely refused to admit that he was a gambler until soon before his death. Then, being caught in the switches in some congressional investigation, he confounded all present by a simple declaration that he was a gambler.

I asked Miss Andrews what she was fixing to use for filling for the colonel's early days in Chicago when he ran a sawdust joint on, I thought, Clark street. She said oh, she had a very good account of that and added, by the way, that it wasn't Clark but Quincy. That it could have been, for I was in short pants when I first saw the patrol wagons back up to the downtown gaming rooms and the gallant officers in their gray chowder-bowl casques gravely escort malefactors of solemn mien up the little steps for the ride to the detective bureau where, as a rule, all trace was lost.

Miss Andrews also reminded me that Colonel Bradley's first plush joint, a term which was new and appropriate then but of late has come to mean any dump with a velvet rope, was the old Del Prado hotel out south, where I never was, of course. He had also run a clothing store on Clark, but that seems to have been a minor and momentary phase of a fascinating career and insignificant one way or another.

One looks today with nostalgia, at the green park where Bradley's virginal little New England manse for many years housed the monumental traffic in chips and cash money and the strange emotions of many of our ultra-rich and our more pushful climbers. Canfield's still stands in its grove at Saratoga, but Bradley's white clapboard rectory was taken stuck from stick to total obliteration. The flat, expressionless square of grass is a mockery.

Mr. Bradley wore a starched linen collar of a type called the gates-ajar. In all the years when I knew him he was abstemious and excessively decorous. I have heard, but I have no knowledge one way or another, that he was open-handed, as so many old gamblers were supposed to be. The on discussion of gambling that he permitted me was a small comment on the odds in favor of the house and against the public. Moral considerations aside, no professional ever should monkey with the wheel, dice or cards because the house always had the bulge on the customer. In roulette the advantage was five and five-nineteenths per cent. Bird cage, which he would never deal in Palm Beach, was practically a stick-up but it had a fascinating lure for women and was a fine grind for a less restrained operator. And he said that he always had this great advantage over the players, that they, the players, would either take down and quit with a small winning or keep on and go for broke trying to break him.

I went into his office one night and saw ball-bats leaning against the safe. Barry Shannon, his manager, laughed pleasantly when I asked if the boys who always pattrolled the shadows of the parking lot at night were taking up softball in their leisure hours. No, Mr. Shannon said, these were the ceremonial wands, as it were, of the entertainment committee. And these various guns, automatic pistols, Colts and rifles were for the reinforcements. Directing my gaze at the chaste white lattice which overlooked the large roulette room, he pointed out two dark solemn figures sitting there with weapons across their knees, peering out of the muck into the dazzling scene below.

That night Mr. Shannon told me of an occasion when Gerald Chapman, a suave but desperate little man, strolled in escorting a lady and was pegged by one of the men on the door before he crossed the threshold. There was a reward out of $100,000 for Chapman dead or alive, and, I believe, another of the same size for Dutch Anderson, his partner. Shannon's men let Chapman buy and play a little stack. The rifles followed him at every step and meanwhile Shannon phoned Bob Baker, the sheriff, across the causeway. Baker told him by all means to avoid scandal and, if possible, to ease Chapman onto the causeway and across Lake Worth to town. Anderson was hiding in West Palm Beach, but the sheriff let them both escape, all, said Barry Shannon, to spare Palm

So They Say

When it comes to diet, don't take it off too fast. But since all leaders have to take it on the chin, isn't one chin enough.

—Mrs. Wilma Soss, U. S. Steel stockholder tells Board Chairman Benjamin Fairless he should lose weight.

Having served the magnificent United States Army in two world wars, and for more than a year as Secretary of the Army, I do not intend to end that service because of some stormy weather that I personally encountered over the past 10 days.

—Army Secretary Stevens.

Officials in the executive branch will have my unqualified support in insisting that witnesses be treated fairly.

—President Eisenhower.

Ike broke 80 the other day—all the clubs he had.

—Milton Berle.

Many of our people are fearful and suspicious of the way the treaty-making power and the President's power to make executive agreements have recently been used.

—Senator George (D., Ga.)

The administration says on the one hand that it wants to cut taxes, and then turns around and increases taxes indirectly by raising (still a proposal) the cost of postage.

—Rep. John McCormack (D., Mass.).

Beach uncouth publicity. They killed leased two victims later and that may have been a burden on the conscience of the noble sheriff, but no man ever questioned his courage so far was not his reason for letting the two most wanted men slip through.

Chapman was convicted of murder at Hartford, Conn., and was the first and only guest of honor at a unique experiment in hanging at Wetherfield prison. Instead of dropping through a trap the subject was yanked off his feet by the fall of a huge metal plug from a pile-driver. Gene Fowler wrote that the hitching-weight snapped Chapman aloft and whipped him around like a trout. This method was abandoned after that.

Dutch Anderson sneaked around a while longer and was shot dead in an alley in Battle Creek. See transit gloria mundi.

Childish 'Associations' Are Confusing If Not Corrected

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

My grandmother was born in Scotland, but when I was a small girl, lived near us in New York State. However, when I visited her she talked only about her native land which she loved very much. In no time at all, I became persuaded that whenever I went to see her, I was taking a trip to Scotland.

I can still recall the horror of my first-grade teacher when I announced that I had been to Scotland. She wrote a strong letter to my mother. That evening, I was corrected. The association I had made between Scotland and New York State was broken.

Sometimes these childish associations are never corrected. And make trouble.

For example, I know a highly gifted writer who has never developed his gifts. His parents were divorced when he was seven. Soon afterwards, his mother had a nervous breakdown.

Relatives came and went with hushed footsteps and advice to remember how good his poor mother was. In no time at all, her little son made the same kind of association. I once made over my grandmother's talk of Scotland. All the talk of goodness and suffering made them like one and the same thing for this little boy.

It has been an unfortunate association of ideas. For with his conviction that suffering is virtuous, this grown man still seeks out suffering at every opportunity.

He will promise an editor a story and then delay writing it in order to suffer when the editor loses his temper.

He will provoke his patient wife into criticizing him before the children so that he will have grounds to complain to them of his hen-pecked state.

He is tired of suffering; terribly tired of it, but just can't seem to disentangle it from the saintliness with which it was associated for him years and years ago.

We have to take care what ideas we connect together for our children.

Suppose I lie to my boring neighbor? What happens to the child who hears me say what isn't so? Well, he begins to "associate." I get connected with lying. Since he trusts me, lying becomes part of the trust he gives me. It may take me quite a while to disconnect his trust from lies.

It's quite amazing how many of these associations of ideas that have no real connection at all can influence and confuse our young—unless we correct them in-time.

Only One in Heaven?

It all happened in Ntoroso, a village in the Soudan of French West Africa. A boy was heard praying. This was not strange but the way he prayed and meaning of his prayer made quite a stir! "Oh Lord, save my people! Am I to be the only Samogo in heaven?" He became known as the "lone Samogo" because of this heavy burden he carried. But today that boy, Para, is no longer alone! To the Samogo Tribe he returned from the Bible School and began a fervent ministry among his own people! Yes, today because of the faithfulness of a boy named Para, others from Samogo are in Bible School, separated from their paganism, and are preparing to share their new-found joy with still others! It all started when one boy, "the lone Samogo" caught the vision of salvation for his people and then faithfully strove to do his part in reaching them with the Gospel of Jesus Christ! Perhaps you are the very one God wants as a spokesman for Him in some wide stretch of this vast world! Give God a chance to speak to your heart. Attend the World-Missions Conference at The Alliance Church, Fifth & Ottawa, each night this week (except Monday) at 7:30, and all day Sunday. This could be the great turning-point in your life. God grant it.

Greenlease Cop Facing U. S. Court

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A suspended St. Louis patrolman goes on trial in Federal District Court here today on a charge of lying about handling the Greenlease ransom, more than half of which is still missing.

Selection of a jury to hear the perjury case involving the suspended patrolman, Elmer Dolan, was the first order of business.

A grand jury, investigating the disappearance of $303,720 of the $600,000 ransom, charged Dolan with giving "untrue and false" testimony in connection with two suitcases into a police station where they took Carl Austin Hall after arresting him in a St. Louis apartment last October.

Both Executed
Hall and his accomplice, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, were executed Dec. 17 for the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease, son of multi-millionaire auto dealer Robert Greenlease of Kansas City.

Dolan testified it was only a matter of minutes after Hall was taken into the station by Shoulders that he went in with one suitcase. He said that Shoulders took the other.

The grand jury indictment charged the suitcases "were not taken into the police station at the time and in the manner alleged" by Dolan.

In a confession read in U. S. District Court here before his execution, Hall said "neither the money nor the suitcases were brought to the station with me."

Saw No Suitcases
Several witnesses who were at the police station testified before the grand jury they saw no suitcases brought into the station with Hall.

Hall's confession said he had nearly all of the $600,000 ransom in two suitcases and a brief case at the time of his arrest.

Shoulders has said publicly he gave one of the suitcases to John Hager to carry out to a police car. Hager, a St. Louis cab driver, was credited by Shoulders with providing a tip which helped lead to the arrest of Hall.

Both Shoulders and Dolan have denied any knowledge of the missing ransom money.

Aurora Women Hurt in Crash South of Dixon

Two Aurora women were injured today when a car in which they were riding went off the road about five miles southeast of Dixon on U. S. Rt. 52.

Reported in fair condition at KSB hospital are Mrs. Wilma Schmeisser, 30, and her mother, Mrs. Zella Farris, 49. The extent of Mrs. Schmeisser's injuries has not been determined. Her mother suffered a broken ankle.

According to Robert Burra, Lee county chief deputy, the mishap occurred as the car driven by Donald Schmeisser, 30, husband of Wilma, swerved off the road to avoid a collision.

Schmeisser told authorities he was heading west on U. S. Rt. 52 toward Dixon when the car hit a slippery spot on the highway.

To avoid skidding into an oncoming truck, Schmeisser pulled off the road and crashed into the ditch. The truck kept going.

A passing motorist brought the three to KSB hospital. The accident occurred about 10 a. m.

Delph Sentenced On Assault Charge

A 17-year-old Dixon youth was sentenced Saturday in Lee county court to a year in Vandalia, state work farm, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and battery.

Charles Delph was arraigned before Judge Grover Gehant on an information prepared by State's Atty. James Bales, which charged him with beating Lyle Taylor, Dixon, Friday night.

Delph was taken into custody Saturday by Lee County Sheriff John Stouffer on a complaint brought by Taylor, who accused the defendant of striking him several times in a Dixon alley.

According to testimony, Delph attacked Taylor for no apparent reason. The incident took place on Commercial alley, between First street and River street.

Sheriff Stouffer said Delph and Taylor had been in the DeLuxe cafe, Dixon. They were not together. Both had a cup of coffee.

Taylor said he got up first to leave and Delph followed him out, apparently seeking a fight. He asked Taylor to step into the alley.

Taylor said he told Delph he didn't want to fight but went into the alley, allegedly to talk the teen-

60 Divorces Granted Here During 1953

Sixty divorce decrees were granted in Lee county during 1953, according to John Shaulis, circuit court clerk.

There were no annulments last year, Shaulis reported. A total of 79 complaints for divorces were filed.

The figures for 1953 represent a drop under 1952 in the rate of marital problems ending in Lee county circuit court.

During 1952, there were 68 divorces and one annulment for a total of 69 court actions. In 1951, there were 76 divorces and three annulments.

ager out of the forthcoming incident.

Ignoring Taylor's views, Delph proceeded to beat him.

Delph had been released a few weeks ago from Vandalia, having served six months for violating his probation after pleading guilty to larceny.

Sheriff Stouffer said he had been fined earlier this month for a previous case of assault and battery.

'Joe Must Go' Club Begin Task of Signing Petitions

SAUK CITY, Wis. (U-P)—The "Joe Must Go" club, spearheaded by eight editors and writers from Wisconsin weekly newspapers today began the task of getting out about one out of every five of the state's eligible voters to sign petitions aimed at the recall of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The club was formed at a meeting called here Sunday by Leroy Gore, editor of a local weekly newspaper, that drew about 500 persons. They came, sponsors said, from 43 of the state's 71 counties. They included Democrats, Republicans and independent voters.

A steering committee of 20 was chosen to circulate petitions throughout the state. These must bear about 404,000 signatures before any recall move can be even considered by the secretary of state.

2,200,000 Eligible
The state has about 2,200,000 eligible voters.

Even if the move is successful there are several other possible barriers to any recall action of the controversial senator who has gained the nation's attention through his hunt for Communists in government and his rift with the Army.

Several governmental leaders, both federal and state, have expressed the belief that the recall would be outlawed by a federal constitutional provision that Congress shall be the sole judge of its members.

Special Election
In the event the present move is successful and the signatures are obtained and held valid, a special election would have to be held at which Sen. McCarthy's name would go on the ballot along with any others who qualified to run through filing of nomination papers. It would be a "sudden death" election, with the man with the highest total winning.

Only Ford in the low-price field offers power on all four windows . . . a 4-way power seat which adjusts up and down as well as forward and back. Power steering, power brakes and versatile Fordomatic Drive are also available—and they make your fine Ford even more fun to drive.

Top value of resale
Used car prices show that in recent years Ford has consistently returned a higher proportion of its original cost at resale than any other car. And for 1954, with all its advanced new features, Ford is worth even more when you buy it . . . and it stands to reason it should be worth more when you sell it, too.

There's a Moral in This Story About Elwin Frog

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—Once upon a time a tadpole named Elwin lived in a small pond away out in the sticks.

Elwin was different from the other tadpoles. All they wanted to do was grow up and be big bullfrogs and sit on a lily pad and sing all night long. But not Elwin. He wanted to make his mark in the world.

One day a strong wind blew a tattered old circus poster into the pond. The other tadpoles swam up and laughed at the pictures of the elephants on the poster. But not Elwin.

Makes Decision

"That is the life for me," he decided. "I want to go places and see things. I'm going to be an elephant."

All the residents of the small pond laughed at Elwin except his mother, Matilda, and his father, Oswald J. Frog.

"I don't care what you become, Elwin," said his mother, comfortingly. "Just so you are good, and don't do anything to hurt your health."

But Oswald J. Frog was outraged. He was extremely pompous about his family tree, as his ancestors had been smuggled over on the Mayflower by a young Puritan lad.

But Elwin was determined to be an elephant. When he began to change from a tadpole into a young frog, he kept pulling on his nose to make it longer and learned to blow water through it. He figured that to become an elephant he would have to eat like a horse, so he ate all he could.

Eats And Grows

Little Elwin ate and he ate . . . and he grew and he grew . . . until finally, at last, he woke up one morning and found he was—an elephant.

At first Elwin was happy. His mother was proud of him, too.

But his father told him angrily, "you're nothing but a freak."

The other frogs, his former playmates, cut him dead. Finally one told him frankly, "with all your big ideas, Elwin, don't you find this pond a little small?"

Elwin brooded and brooded. Then one night he packed all his belongings in a small bundle and ran away to join a circus.

He thought the other elephants would welcome him. But they snubbed him.

"If I can't join your troupe," said Elwin stubbornly, "I'll become a star in my own right."

And he did. He hired a smart manager and overnight "Elwin, the world's only hopping elephant" became world famous.

Gets Invitation

When Elwin had become the wealthiest elephant in history, he received a telegram saying:

"Your old friends and neighbors join me in asking you, our pond's most illustrious son, to return and be the main speaker at a banquet to kickoff our annual community charity drive for aged amphibians. Sorry we can't offer to pay your expenses. (signed) Mayor Frog."

So Elwin went home. Cheers rose on every hand when he got up to speak that night at the banquet.

"It is indeed a pleasure—" Elwin began, then went "harrumph, harrumph."

"Got a cold?" asked the mayor. "Oh, no," Elwin laughed, and told the audience, "Excuse me . . . just a frog in my throat."

Panic Spreads

"A frog!" cried the mayor, looking around to see if any of his constituents were missing.

Panic spread through the crowd. Lady frogs gathered their children about them and hopped away. The big bullfrogs began hurling mud at Elwin, as they hopped away backward.

"Look, it's all a mistake," said

Employees Given Choice of Party Or a Gymnasium

WESTBROOK, Maine (U)—Paper-makers at the S. D. Warren mill will vote April 10 on this question: Shall the company celebrate its centennial by throwing a big party or by giving $100,000 for a high school gymnasium?

President George Olmstead Jr. and Manager Everett Ingalls said today their first thought was a party for all 2,700 workers and their families.

But they decided that would be "an expensive shindig—enjoyed for a day and nothing to show for it later." They estimated the cost of this "one-day bender" would be "almost enough to build a gymnasium for the new high school."

In a letter distributed to the workers, they said a gymnasium "would serve the community long after a picnic would be forgotten. If the majority vote is in favor of the gymnasium, we propose to give $100,000 for its construction."

Elwin. No answer. The pond was empty.

Heart-broken, Elwin returned to the circus, made a farewell triumphal tour, then retired and bought an apartment on Park Avenue.

Moral: In this world a big heart is rarely understood by small minds.

Busser Scores for Dixon at Oak Park Meet

Gains Tie For Fourth In Pole Vault

Draper Stumbles In Semi-Finals of 50 Yard Dash

OAK PARK (Special)—Clarence Busser, vaulting to the best height in his high school career, scored the only points for Dixon at the Oak Park relays here Saturday.

In his first meet of the season, Busser boosted himself to 11'9" to gain a share of a four way tie for fourth place which gave Dixon 3 1/2 of a point. Don Stasch of Carl Schurz, won the event with a vault of 12'3". Louis Flinn of Princeton was tied for second with Warren Tarr of York.

Busser, who's best vault in the past has been 11'6", might have done even better at the meet had he been using a 16 foot pole.

Coach Art Bowers said. But because a 14 foot pole has been all that Busser has been using in the past, a 16 foot pole was not included in the gear taken to the meet.

Catches Spike However, the vault verifies a belief by Coach Marvin (Dutch) Winger that Busser will easily clear 12 feet this year.

Kay Draper, entered in the 50 yard dash, was one second off the winning time in the finals, but he was eliminated in the semi-final heat when he stumbled coming out of the hole at the start and never recovered.

The Dixon sprinter caught his spike on a little raise in the bend of the track. He had finished first in the qualifying heat with a time of 5.6 seconds and then ran second in the quarterfinals less than five minutes later. In the semi-finals, Draper ran into misfortune.

Disqualified Draper also cleared the first two hurdles in the high jump but was called to run in the 50 yard dash. When he got back, his flight was through in the high jump and Draper was not allowed to complete his jumps.

The 50 yard dash was won by Jim Franzen of Highland Park in 5.5 seconds and the high jump was taken by Floyd Smith of Mt. Carroll at 6'4".

Dixon's medley relay team in the Class B event, failed to score. First place was won by Princeton in 3:20.7 minutes. The Dixon team was composed of Draper, Bill Smith, Art Gann and Lou Wigginton. Both Gann and Wigginton competed in the mile run, but failed to score.

Princeton Wins Princeton's winning relay team was composed of Forest Finn, Dan Faley, Byron Marks and Clint Byrd.

Other area scoring: Sammy Mylin of Sterling, tied for second in the high jump with Harold Caffey of LaGrange; Don Walker of Sterling was fifth in the 50 yard dash; Ken Bowers of DeKalb was third in the second race of the mile run.

Princeton won the Class B meet with 13 1/2 points. Mt. Carroll was fifth with 5 points. Sterling was eighth with 4 1/2 points. DeKalb was 10th with 3 points and Dixon was 13th with 3 1/2 of a point.

Rookie Can Hit But Can't Field Rudy Regalado Poses Problem For Cleveland Manager Lopez

By ED CORRIGAN AP Sports Writer

Dilemmas—those things that chop years off the life of a major league manager—are nothing new to Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians. He's had a king-sized one since he took over the Tribe and has been trying to beat out the New York Yankees for the American league pennant.

But now he has a brand new one: what to do with Rudy Regalado.

This 23-year-old rookie infielder has shown no respect for opposing pitchers since the start of spring training. At the moment he has clubbed nine home runs and is batting a cool .481 with 25 hits in 52 tries during the exhibition season.

This sort of slugging would be enough to light the eyes of any manager. So Lopez' eyes lit.

But... The kid can't field, or, at least it sure looks like he can't. He's a third baseman by trade. But there's no use battling Al Rosen recovered.

The Dixon sprinter caught his spike on a little raise in the bend of the track. He had finished first in the qualifying heat with a time of 5.6 seconds and then ran second in the quarterfinals less than five minutes later. In the semi-finals, Draper ran into misfortune.

Disqualified Draper also cleared the first two hurdles in the high jump but was called to run in the 50 yard dash. When he got back, his flight was through in the high jump and Draper was not allowed to complete his jumps.

The 50 yard dash was won by Jim Franzen of Highland Park in 5.5 seconds and the high jump was taken by Floyd Smith of Mt. Carroll at 6'4".

Dixon's medley relay team in the Class B event, failed to score. First place was won by Princeton in 3:20.7 minutes. The Dixon team was composed of Draper, Bill Smith, Art Gann and Lou Wigginton. Both Gann and Wigginton competed in the mile run, but failed to score.

Princeton Wins Princeton's winning relay team was composed of Forest Finn, Dan Faley, Byron Marks and Clint Byrd.

Other area scoring: Sammy Mylin of Sterling, tied for second in the high jump with Harold Caffey of LaGrange; Don Walker of Sterling was fifth in the 50 yard dash; Ken Bowers of DeKalb was third in the second race of the mile run.

Princeton won the Class B meet with 13 1/2 points. Mt. Carroll was fifth with 5 points. Sterling was eighth with 4 1/2 points. DeKalb was 10th with 3 points and Dixon was 13th with 3 1/2 of a point.

Money-Playing Lakers vs. Battered Syracuse in NBA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, invariably at their peak in pursuit of the playoff dollar, match their unruffled veterans against battered Syracuse this week in the start of pro basketball's world series.

The stake is the National Basketball Assn. championship and the $7,500 that goes to the winner. The teams play here Wednesday night and Saturday afternoon, the second game before a national television audience, before shifting to Syracuse in the best-of-seven series.

Five times a league champion in six years of competition, Minneapolis advanced into the league playoff Sunday by scoring eight points in the last minute to beat Rochester, 82-72. The victory gave the Lakers a 2-1 edge in the Western Division's best-of-three playoff.

Syracuse won the Eastern Division championship by taking two straight from Boston after sweeping undefeated through the preliminary round-robin playoffs. The Lakers likewise won unbeaten in the Western Division elimination before dropping one game to Rochester.

Syracuse comes up to the test with three of its aces ailing. Dolph Schayes, who fractured his left wrist Saturday, is out of Wednesday's game.

Paul Seymour, who suffered a badly sprained right thumb, will see at least limited action and Earl Lloyd also will play part time. The cast on Lloyd's fractured right hand will be removed shortly before game time.

TWO POLICEMEN rush in to break up a fight between players of the Boston Celtics and Syracuse Nationals in third quarter of their game in the National Basketball Association Eastern division play-off at the Boston Garden (March 27). Fracas started when Wally Osterkorn of Syracuse rushed at Boston's Bob Harris after the latter had fouled Dolph Schayes of Syracuse. When order was restored, Schayes was found to have suffered a cut over his right eye which required three stitches. No one was ejected from the game which Syracuse won, 83-76. (AP Wirephoto)

Ready to Challenge Yanks Indians Need Mound Help

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, runners-up to the champion New York Yankees the last three seasons, may be in a position this time of not only hoping to challenge for the pennant, but also to hang on to second place.

Manager Al Lopez will be a man of many decisions in the next three weeks. He can use help for his "Big Three" on the mound. Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn.

He has no problem with third baseman Al Rosen, 1953's most valuable player-elect in the American League and home run champion with 43.

Rookie at First He is set with George Strickland at short and Bobby Avila at second. Avila, however, is being pressed by Rudy Regalado, strapping youngster from Indianapolis.

Three candidates are battling for first base. Rookie Rocky Nelson, most valuable in the International League last year with Montreal, seems to have the inside track. But big Luke Easter and holdover Bill Glynn are still to be considered.

Lopez still has to cut his outfield corps. Wally Westlake might get the starting call in left field. Larry Doby is a fixture in center and Dave Philley, acquired from the Athletics, in right.

Uncertain are Dale Mitchell, Bob Kennedy, Jim Lemon, Dave Pope, Henry Simpson, Al Smith and Gade Wade.

NCAA Swim Champs Called 'Best Ever'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Mike Peppe, whose Ohio State University swimmers have won more titles than he can count, today proudly proclaimed his present hand "the best team I've ever coached."

The veteran mentor, who directed the American divers at the last Olympics, was particularly impressed "with the two records set by Ford Konno, the little buckeye by way of Honolulu, as State won the NCAA team title. Konno shattered records both in the 440-yard and 1500-meter freestyle events.

Ohio Staters lived up to expectations. They won the meet with 94 points, while Michigan could do no better than second with 67. Ohio State counted nine individual crowns with Konno's two records among their loot. And they'll be favored to pick up still more laurels in the national AAU championships opening at New Haven Thursday.

Konno was the standout of the three-day meet, which ended Saturday night. He whipped home in 4:28.8 in the 440 to lower the old mark of 4:30.2. In the 1500, he clipped his own mark of 18:15.5 by splashing the distance in 18:14.4.

Yale placed third in the meet with 36 points. Other entries which pickup more than 10 points were Harvard with 23, Stanford 19, Dartmouth 14, and Springfield, Mass., 11.

Sports in Brief By the Associated Press TAMPA, Fla. — The Brooklyn Dodgers sold utility infielder Bobby Morgan to the Philadelphia Phillies for a reported $60,000, and second baseman Dick Young.

FORT PIERCE, Fla. — The Philadelphia Athletics sold catcher Ray Murray to the Baltimore Orioles for an estimated $25,000.

SPORTS VISITORS HOME WHAT'S THE SCORE by Norm Follow

IT'S A GOOD THING I didn't polish my car yesterday. We might have had a blizzard if I had. I spent two hours cleaning up my golf clubs yesterday afternoon and look what happened—snow.

Speaking of golf, a meeting of male members of Plum Hollow Country club has been called for 8 p. m. Tuesday night.

THE WEATHER IS LIABLE to cause trouble for the latest tournament to hit Dixon—the VFW marbles tournament for grade school youngsters.

The local VFW is sponsoring a city tournament of marbles champions which can lead all the way to the national VFW tournament at Akron, Ohio.

THE FIRST STEP TAKES PLACE within the various schools in the city. Each school will crown a champion sometime between now and April 19.

April 19-23, the city finals will be held with the champions of each school meeting to decide the city champ who will then go to the district tournament at Sterling, April 24.

THE DISTRICT WINNER will go to the state tournament at Streator and the state winner goes to Akron for the national finals.

ON THE LOCAL LEVEL, traveling trophies will be presented to the winner of each school title with the champ's name engraved on it and placed in the school trophy case.

Medals will be presented to the city champion and to the first and second runners-up in the city tournament.

IN ADDITION TO THE MARBLES tournament for boys, a jacks tournament will be held for girls. This will be run on the same basis as the marbles event except there is no district, state or national competition.

Both the marble and jacks champions will get a free airplane ride over the city of Dixon.

RULES FOR BOTH TOURNAMENTS provide that contestants must be under 15 years of age. Anyone reaching his or her 15th birthday on or before April 15, is not eligible.

In the marble tournament, 13 marbles will be placed in a cross, three inches apart, in a 10-foot ring. Marbles must be round and made of glass and of a uniform size (not more than 3/16" in diameter. Shooters can be of any substance other than metal.

STUNTS FOR JACKS OR JACKSTONES: Commons, scoops, upcasts, downcasts, set the table, sweep the floor, scrub the floor, double upcasts, double downcasts and over the moon. (Sounds like interplanetary house cleaning.)

KARL OLSON was accorded honorable mention on Jack Prowell's All-State basketball team in the Champaign News-Gazette. Olson was the only Dixon player mentioned.

Ottawa's Gene Honeyman was named to the fifth team. OTHERS NAMED FROM THIS AREA: Special mention—Roger Kowalski, St. Bede; Pat McCarthy, Walnut; Stan Peterson and Joe Rucklick, Princeton; Curt Truelsenbrod, Mendota. Honorable mention: Vern Cobb, Geneseo; Marvin Dennis, Byron; Bob Detig, Rochelle; Dave DeGraff, Forreston; Ken Ferris, Rock Falls; Ron Hill, Rochelle; Wendell Hanson, Sterling; Bruce Kundle, Sterling; Dick McMahon, Mendota; Truman Nehls, Geneseo; Ray Nelson, Ashton; Dick Paszotta, DeKalb; Bill Shields, Ottawa.

Rathman Wins OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The 250-lap Grand National stock car race was won Sunday by Dick Rathman of Daytona Beach, Fla., who pushed his Hudson to the lead on the 143rd lap after trailing all the other 25 starters.

His time for the 125 miles was 7 hours 27 minutes.

which is better... Hank Henry Looks at Sports

Forest Evashevski in his address at the All-Sports banquet last Thursday evening explained the value of athletics to the boys as simply as I've ever heard it explained. I felt that the speech was tops but was disappointed in Evy's lack of commentary during the showing of the Iowa-Notre Dame game movies. The way Evashevski looks, talks and acts certainly indicates to one why he is a successful coach.

Congratulations to Don Nafziger and Karl Olson for making the Northern Illinois large school All-Star first and second team respectively. That's an even greater honor than making the N. C. I. C. all-conference team.

To complete a job brings a lot of satisfaction. A new pair of FREEMAN SHOES completes your new spring outfit. See the new Freeman spring styles at HANK HENRY'S now.

The Dixon Dukes should have a good 880-yard relay team this spring with speedsters Don Spotts, Bob Hamill, Kay Draper, John Perry, Max Akerman and Jerry Brady from which to choose. Also the tennis and golf teams should rank right up with the conference leaders this year. The tennis team has been strong for several years. The golf team should be much stronger this year with the addition of Johnny Peterson and Henry Noble to most of last year's team.

Isn't that something for Ned Saek to roll 947 for four games in the LaSalle tournament last Saturday night and then fail to qualify the following Sunday morning for the Blackhawk Championship roll-off at the Dixon Recreation? Ned's 947 was the highest total ever rolled from scratch in the history of the LaSalle tourney.

Crowds Jam Miami But They Watch Bankroll

Trend to Religion and Home Life Is Detected

By SAM DAWSON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Some of the whoopee has gone out of the sand spit of pleasure.

The crowds are still here, but they're watching their pennies.

And a banker says that over on the mainland, all along the coast, there's a building boom—in churches and religious schools or recreation buildings.

Tourists are crowding the race tracks, it's true, in greater numbers than this time last year (after a poor start earlier in the season). The $2 windows are doing the landoffice business.

Clubs Are Moaning

Night clubs are moaning. One is closing down now, ahead of schedule, because people don't stay up late making whoopee like they did last year. Taxi drivers say people are here all right, but they're staying home.

Hotels and merchants had a bad lull around the turn of the year because tourists were slow arriving. Then the north poured a stream of sun seekers here—but they left at home any free-spending notions they might have had, tips are modest.

A Florida-born banker, Leonard A. Usina, president of the People's National Bank in Miami, says there's been a striking return to religion along the pleasure coast. Maybe the World War and the Korean fighting helped. Maybe the A-bomb and H-bomb put fear into a lot of folk.

Going To Church

People are going to church more and building more churches. Usina finds the trend running through many faiths. Banks in this area are doing considerable financing of religious structures. Usina thinks the return to religion is "building a solid foundation for the future" along the Florida coast.

Tourists, however, continue to flock to the horse and dog tracks. Their attendance and betting totals make a good fever chart of how the tourist trade is running.

And it's important to the state government, too. Florida has no income tax, but the state treasury takes a six per cent cut of pari-mutual bets.

Spot Trends

Merchants say tourists are buying less expensive souvenirs than in some recent years. They eat in cafeterias and not so much in hotel dining rooms. They place smaller bets on the nags. They watch television in their hotel rooms, rather than spending time and money at the night clubs. And the year-round Floridians tend to stay home nights more than they used to.

Maybe it's a shift in American habits, a trend back to home life and religion. Or maybe it's just because free and easy money isn't flowing as it once did, while the costs of maintaining a high standard of living, rich in gadgetry, seem to go right on mounting.

In 1890, about 69 per cent of U.S. men over 65 were in the labor force compared with about 42 per cent in 1950.

Freight Cars Plunge Into Puget Sound

Eight Cars, Engine Dive as Trestle Is Weakened by Fire

STEILACOOM, Wash. (AP)—In what the engineer called "30 seconds of hell," eight units of a 73-car Union Pacific Railroad freight train plunged through a burning trestle into Puget Sound here Sunday.

The only casualty was L. R. Pearson, a brakeman who suffered minor burns about the eyes as he braved flames to save three carloads of bellowing cattle.

Union Pacific officials placed damage to the trestle and to the cars at more than $300,000.

Engineer William Boyce said he was highballing along the water-side track toward Seattle, some 45 miles to the north, when he rounded a curve and saw flames billowing from the trestle.

He applied the air brakes, but the heavily laden train couldn't be stopped before the three diesel units and 19 cars ploughed through the flames. The next eight cars dropped through to the water as the trestle gave way. Four cars burned.

The destroyed cars carried wax, tires, refrigerators and shoes. The cause of the fire was not determined.

A car at 20 miles an hour travels 30 feet a second and 90 feet a second at 60 miles an hour.

GOP Farm Program Not Acceptable: Sen. Young

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Young (R-ND) predicted today that "there won't be a single Republican or Democrat elected to Congress from the Midwest next November who stands for flexible farm price supports."

Young, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said in an interview if Republicans want to sell a farm program to the voters, they had better get behind his proposal to retain rigid price supports on major field crops at 90 per cent of parity.

President Eisenhower has advocated flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent but Young said he is convinced that the farmers themselves don't want such a program.

Takes Issue

If what he believes is true, the North Dakota senator said, he would have to take issue with Midwestern Republican leaders who came to the conclusion at a meeting in Omaha, Neb., that "if we can get out the farm vote we will win the congressional elections."

"The congressional elections are going to be settled on the basis of individual districts, so far as the House members are concerned, and on a state basis for senators," Young said.

"Each man is going to have to stand on his record and there may be no national trend."

However, Young's views apparently are not shared by some of his Midwestern colleagues.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said in a CBS radio broadcast Sunday that his mail indicates Michigan farmers favor the administration plan 2-1.

Program Gaining

Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Sunday he thinks the program he and the President advocate is gaining approval of farmers generally and of Congress. In response to a question on an NBC television program, he said that if Congress passes a bill to continue the present high rigid supports, he thinks Eisenhower would veto it "in the interest of the farmer and of the country."

Benson also denied that he plans any revision in his directive lowering price supports on dairy products from 90 to 75 per cent of parity effective Thursday.

Siamese Twins Born in Canada; Part of Triplets

MONTREAL (AP)—Siamese twin girls, part of a set of triplets born to a Montreal housewife Saturday, were reported in "poor" condition early today. The third baby girl was said to be normal and in good shape.

Local doctors said they had never heard of Siamese babies as part of a triplet birth. The Siamese pair were joined by skin and bone at the top of their heads.

The triplets were born to Mrs. James Savage, 31-year-old wife of a local jewelry salesman. The couple have three other children, a boy 9 and daughters 8 and 7.

Senatorial Candidates State Issues

CHICAGO (AP) — All nine of Illinois' GOP Primary candidates for the U. S. Senate appeared on television Sunday night to state their views on issues of the primary election April 13.

The candidates shared an hour-long show available to a major segment of the state's population in the Chicago metropolitan area. Edward A. Hayes used the occasion to advance a proposal that the United States substitute for foreign aid money spent by other nations for Iron Curtain goods, U. S. coal, farm produce and manufactures.

"In this way," Hayes said, "Three of the most worthy segments of our population, as well as millions of others engaged in transportation and other channels of commerce, would profit and prosper."

Why Use Dollars?
Hayes asked "Why should we use our American dollars to provide a continued prosperity for the workers of Russia and her satellite countries?"

Austin L. Wyman, another candidate, told viewers he believes Republican candidates are asking the public to continue the party in office, and "We can do that only on the record of the Eisenhower administration. We must of necessity stand or fall on that record."

The other candidates, all residents of the Chicago area, included John B. Crane, Lar Daly, Edgar M. Elbert, Herbert F. Geisler, Julius Klein, Park Livingston and Joseph P. Meek.

Crane said the United States "should rely upon massive sea and air power to contain communism and we should bring our boys home where they belong" from foreign military posts.

Daly told the television audience "America should get out of the phony, spy-infested United Nations."

Elbert said he favors "flexible farm supports now and removal of all supports as soon as possible."

Geisler, a blind Chicago alderman, told viewers that "either party must garner support from the great middle independent voter group" and the winning candidate must represent "the interests of the common people."

Klein, who said he was for "honest Taft Republicanism," declared "internationalists are so much like New Dealers you can't tell them apart."

Livingston said the Eisenhower administration had put "integrity, honesty, decency and morality" in Washington.

Balance Budget
Meek said the United States should balance its budget and "quit going into the red to put other countries in the black."

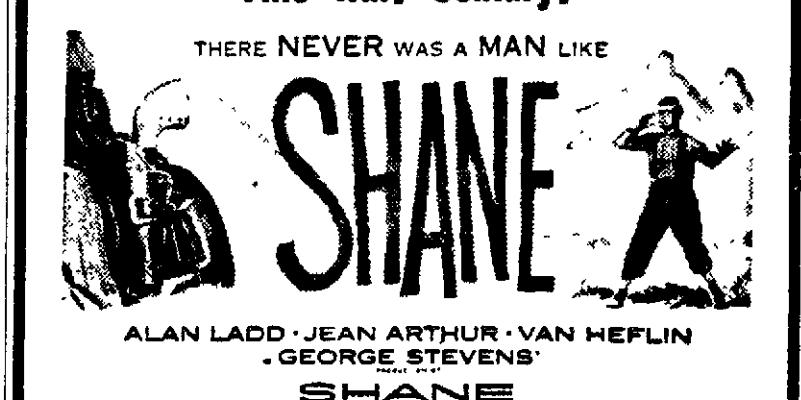

The unusual program, "Senatorial Showcase," was sponsored jointly by television station WBKB and the Chicago American.
